

The Temple of Apollo at Delphi

Archaeologists propose that the prophecies of the oracles in the Temple of Apollo were powered by toxic fumes from naturally-occurring fissures. It may have been crazy ranting in Greek, but in English, the following gibberish makes a strange sort of sense. They're missing their middle pieces, but maybe the clues can tell you what belongs there.

heeled ≠	__ __ __ __	(3,1)	≠ imbued with a spirit board for a painter ≠	__ __ __ __ __ __	(6,3)	≠ wooden shipping platform hunts for food ≠	__ __ __ __ __ __	(3,4)	≠ communicates to a deity referenced ≠	__ __ __ __ __ __	(3,5)	≠ located small child ≠	__ __ __ __ __ __	(3,6)	≠ under high tension work dough ≠	__ __ __ __	(2,3)	≠ struck with a leg joint striped asphalt strip ≠	__ __ __ __	(2,3)	≠ propelled by hand seasonal illness ≠	__ __ __ __	(1,2)	≠ smoke escape route fruity drink suffix ≠	__ __ __	(1,2)	≠ assistant shift-6 ≠	__ __ __ __ __	(3,1)	≠ weight of gems but conspicuously not gold not a vegetarian dish ≠	__ __ __ __	(3,2)	≠ to come together sovereignty ≠	__ __ __ __	(3,2)	≠ animal guidance rope turn solid ≠	__ __ __ __ __	(5,1)	≠ decorative band beneath a cornice trim down ≠	__ __ __ __	(2,3)	≠ pyriform fruit black out words ≠	__ __ __ __ __ __	(3,4)	≠ ceremonial burner ritual acts ≠	__ __ __ __ __ __	(6,4)	≠ composes text